What We're Learning

Reading: Read to Self, Read to Someone, Writing, Word Work, and Guided Reading Groups with Teacher.

This week I introduced biographies. The kids have been researching and reading into an influential figure of their choice! They have enjoyed researching and writing during our biographical studies.

Math: This week we worked a lot in our interactive notebooks. This helps them learn and reference things that will help them with multiplication.

Writing: This week we are still writing our biography book report! This will count as part of the creative report. The traditional one went home last week in the Thursday Folder

Science: In Science we are learning about force and motion.
